Transfer

Truman State University welcomes applications from transfer students. If you have earned 12 hours or more of previous college credit from other accredited institutions after graduating from high school, you can apply for admission to Truman as a transfer student. It is recommended that transfer students apply a minimum of 60 days prior to the start of the semester to ensure adequate time for the admission and registration processes.

To apply for admission, transfer students must submit:

- A completed application for transfer admission (no application fee)
- An essay
- A graded essay from a college course
- Official transcripts from all colleges or universities attended
- Official high school transcript and ACT or SAT scores (if less than 24 hours of transferable post high school college credit at time of application)

Students who are transferring credit will receive advanced standing, semester credit hour for equivalent semester hour, for transferable courses. Transfer students wishing to graduate in a baccalaureate degree program must earn a minimum of 45 credit hours at Truman, with the last 28 taken in residence. A minimum of 15 credit hours of required major coursework must be completed at Truman.

A transfer credit evaluation is automatically completed upon acceptance for each transfer applicant. The credit evaluation provides an assessment of how transferable credit will fulfill major/degree requirements at Truman. The transfer grade point average is also calculated on the evaluation.

Transfer grades are calculated by using the grades for all courses accepted in transfer (this includes D's and F's earned in courses normally accepted for credit at Truman.) The resulting transfer GPA will be used for admission as well as graduation.
